Name: _____ Period: _____ Row: _____ Date: _____

PROBLEM THREE: The Woodsman: On a hot summer day in August a man went into the forest to chop some firewood for the winter months ahead. While he stacked some of the chopped wood he got “it.” Somewhat bewildered at how he got “it,” he sat down on a stack of the wood and looked at “it.” After thinking about “it” and staring at “it” for a short time, he determined that he couldn't get “it.” He then decided to walk out of the woods without his chopped wood in pain with “it.” What was “it?”
