PROBLEM EIGHT: The Head Beater. A young man and woman were walking along a busy metropolitan street on a cloudy Sunday morning. They were on their way to attend the opening performance of the local opera. As they were walking by a five-story apartment building the man began complementing his girlfriend on how attractive she looked. The woman suddenly began screaming for help and the man responded by beating his girlfriend on the head. Other people on the way to the opera called the police who arrived within minutes but did not arrest the man. Why did the man beat the girl on the head?
